Fallen Letters

An extension of "Remembering Princess Diana"

The story "Remembering Princess Diana" (page 11, What's Up May 2017) tells us why so many people around the world loved Princess Diana. With her compassion and grace, she touched the hearts of children and adults in many countries. When she spoke up for a cause or helped a community in hardship, she did not expect anything in return. There is a wise saying about unselfish people like her who do not expect anything in return when they help others. Solve the puzzle below to discover what the saying is.

A. SOLVE THE PUZZLE

Some of the letters in the sentence below have fallen out directly below their squares. Through trial and error, put them back in their correct boxes to discover what Nelson Henderson said about life.

T				t		u			e			i			o			f					t
		a				r				u				r				s				a
			u				n				x	p			t		t		s		t	.
	l	y	o		r	t	o	e	e	s	a		n	n	e	e	c	w		o	i		e	s	i	s	d	e	o
p	h		n	t		d	e			o	t	n	e	d			f	h		l	o	e		i
		e						m							g					l						h

B. WRITE A REFLECTION

This saying uses figurative speech – drawing a likeness to planting trees. One of the reasons we plant trees is to give shade. On a very hot and sunny day, we may enjoy sitting under a tree.

- a) How does the saying apply to what Princess Diana did for others?

- b) Do you think Princess Diana would agree with Nelson Henderson?

- c) What if you knew that you would not get to sit under the tree you planted to enjoy its shade? Would you plant it anyway?
