Quotable Quotes

Based on several What's Up stories

Several stories in this month's What's Up offer interesting statements about peace. Three of them are presented below as quotes. Read the articles they come from. They can all be found in What's Up June 2017. First, look for the quotes within the articles so that you see them in context. Then, work in pairs to answer the questions.

1. Story: Terror attacks trying to cause chaos and division [page 1]

Quote: "The kind of love and unity you're displaying is the medicine the world really needs right now." — Ariana Grande, singer

Questions:

- a) Where and how was Ariana's audience displaying love and unity?
- b) What had happened for Ariana to think that the world needed medicine?
- c) What can you and your friends do together to show that you care for others?

2. Story: Iran votes for progress [page 8]

Quote: "I hope for more freedom in the country." — Farshad Rassasei, an Iranian engineering student

Questions:

- a) Which country is Farshad talking about?
- b) Why does he hope for more freedom in that country?
- c) What needs to happen before his country can enjoy greater freedom?

3. Story: Muslims ≠ Terrorists [page 4]

Quote: "We pray that ISIS will realise their wrongdoings and stop attacking innocent people, and leave the world in peace and harmony!" — primary school students Faria Mehnaz Kaiser, Amulya Prabhu and Amelia Shahana Rizal Abdullah

Questions:

- a) Do you agree with Faria, Amulya and Amelia? Elaborate.
- b) How can parents and teachers convince children that they should not be terrorists when they grow up?
- c) What can you do to promote world peace and harmony? Give one example.
