

The Diary of Paige Langle

An extension of "The biggest bird that ever lived"

1. Read "The biggest bird that ever lived" (page 16, What's Up October 2018). Paige Langle, who discovered the giant elephant bird egg, is the manager of zoology at the Buffalo Museum of Science.
2. Imagine that Ms Langle keeps a diary. Every day, she writes a new diary entry about some fantastical find at the museum.
3. Write one of these entries from her perspective. Make sure to:
 - Describe your discovery of the day. What is it?
 - Is it an inanimate object, or is it alive?
 - What does it look, smell, sound or feel like?
 - Describe your feelings upon finding it.
 - Is it an important discovery? Why or why not?
