

I Can Help, Too

An extension of "Levelling the playing field for people everywhere"

In "Levelling the playing field for people everywhere" (page 10–11, What's Up October 2018), we read about how two people have helped refugees and others in need. Imagine you have a new classmate from another country. What difficulties will he/she face adapting to life in Singapore?

In groups of four to five, discuss the ways you can help the new classmate. Create a mind map below. If you are stuck, look at the helping words at the bottom for some ideas.
