

Cause and Effect

An activity of "Huawei's mixed fortunes"

In "Huawei's mixed fortunes" (page 14, What's Up February 2019), the writer discusses the incidents that have thrust Huawei into the spotlight, and why. Can you identify these incidents and the reasons why they occurred? Write your answers in the appropriate spaces.

	Because this happened...	The outcome...
e.g.	The US, Japan, and Taiwan banned their governments from using Huawei phones.	Huawei has received a lot of bad press.
1		The US, Japan, and Taiwan banned their governments from using Huawei phones.
2	It may become more difficult for Huawei to sell its products overseas.
3	Meng Wanzhou is wanted for fraud.
4		Many people bought Huawei phones and Huawei has become the world's second-biggest smartphone seller.
5		Kishore Lai bought a Huawei Mate 20.

Try doing this with incidents in your own life. Seeing cause-and-effect links is handy when you want to understand whatever you go through in this world.