In Auntie Seyi's Footsteps

An extension of "Street kids who danced their way to stardom"

Read "Street kids who danced their way to stardom" (page 17, What's Up April 2019). Using her passion for dance, Auntie Seyi has worked miracles for many Nigerian children. Not only did she give them a home and education, but also an art form where they can express themselves freely.

Following Auntie Seyi's footsteps, what kind of project might you start one day, here in Singapore?

In teams, create your own passion project for an underprivileged group. The group your project team hopes to work with is your "partner group". Your project must use an arts activity involving the partner group. It does not have to be a huge project. It can be a small but meaningful gesture. Use the form below to draft a detailed plan to propose your project to a local community centre.
