Know, Want, Learn

An activity of "Postponing the Tokyo Olympics is a big disappointment"

Do you find it difficult to understand a reading passage sometimes? Recalling what you already know about the topic is one way to make it easier. This is the "Know, Want, Learn" strategy. Let's try it with the story, "Postponing the Tokyo Olympics is a big disappointment" (Story 10, What's Up April 2020).

1) Before reading the story, fill in the first two columns below.
2) Read the story, keeping in mind what you wrote in the column "What do I want to learn?".
3) Then, fill in the last column.

An example has been provided in the first row.

What do I know about the Olympics?	What do I want to learn?	What have I learnt?
e.g. The Olympics was scheduled to take place in Tokyo this year.	Why was the Olympics postponed?	The coronavirus pandemic caused the postponement.
1.
2.
3.
4.
5.

Try using this Know, Want, Learn strategy when you read any passage that you want to absorb fully.