An activity of Stories of Casual Racism

- 1) Read the article "Racial jokes: 'But they're cool with it!'" . Look at the picture at the start of the article. Describe what you think is happening in the picture.

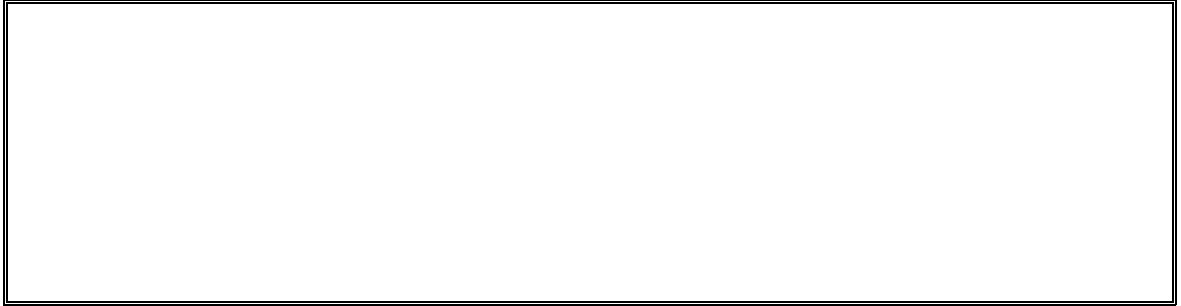

- 2) The victim seems to be smiling. How do you think he really feels? Elaborate.

- 3) What should you do if you are a victim of insulting jokes? Colour all the responses you think are appropriate, to reveal a hidden shape.

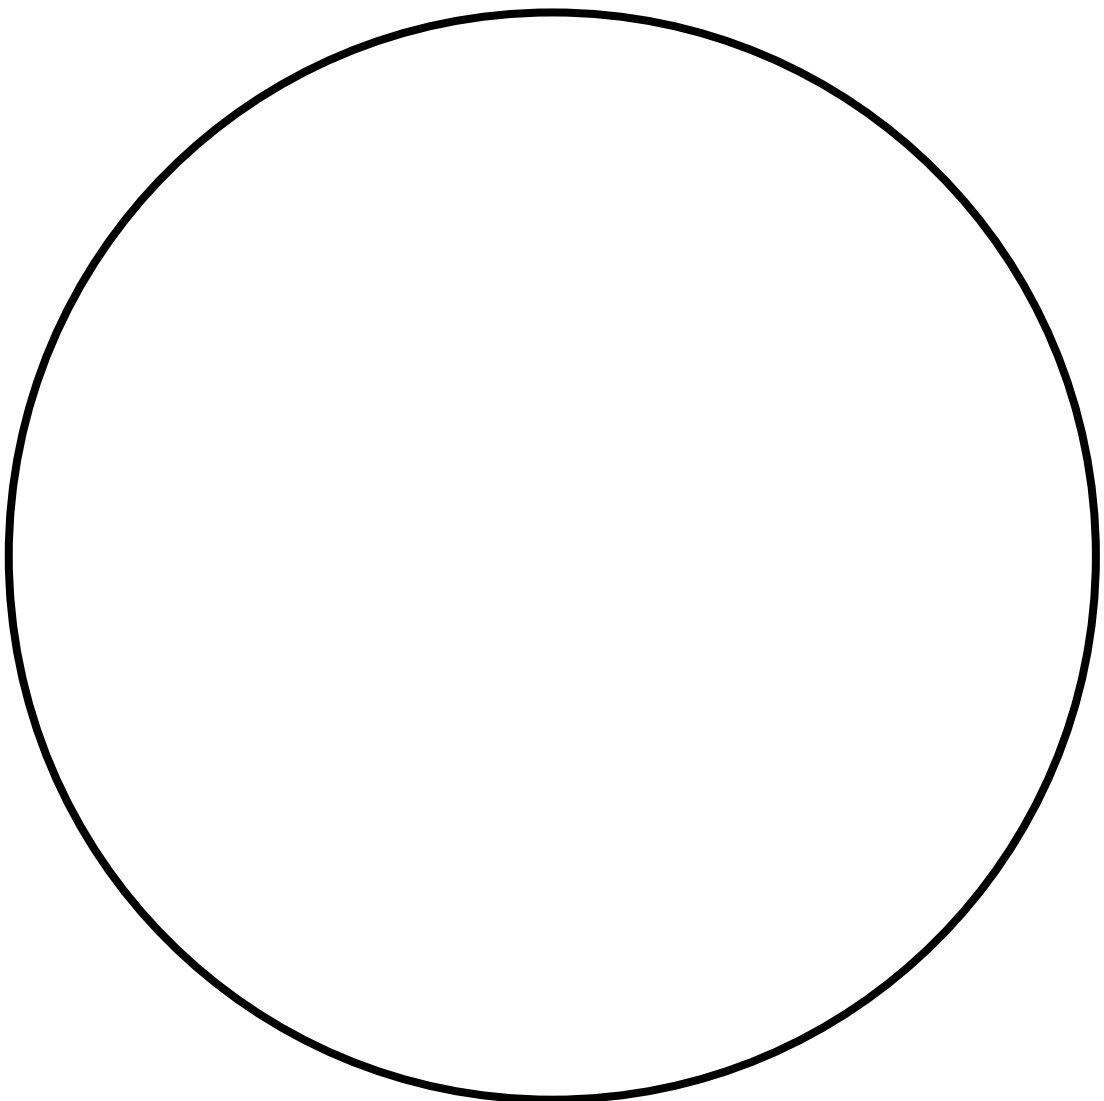

THE HIDDEN SHAPE IS: _____.

4) Think of a happy joke that does not put anyone down. Write the joke below.

5) Illustrate your joke on a paper plate, using edible items. As far as possible, include something sweet — such as sugar, peanut butter, marshmallows, chocolate — to symbolise sweet jokes. Plan the design by sketching it out here first:

6) Share your paper plate and the joke with a friend. Explain what you learnt from the What's Up article about jokes.

Enjoy, and stay sweet!
