A Good Deed

An activity of "Countries work together in icy Antarctica"

The article, "Countries work together in icy Antarctica" (page 7, What's Up February 2021) describes how people from different countries came together in a rescue mission. Have you seen or experienced something similar amongst your friends? Write a composition about it.

1. To help you with your composition, read the article and answer the questions in Column A below. In Column B, jot down points answering the same questions about your story about friends helping someone in a difficult situation. Use fake name — pseudonyms — so that no one is embarrassed.

		A. The Antarctica rescue mission	B. My experience of friends helping someone
Where and when did the incident take place? Describe the setting and the time period.	Introduction
Who (1) was the person in trouble, and (2) were the people helping him?	Body
What kind of difficulty was the person facing?
How was the person helped?
What lesson can we learn from this? Think about a life lesson you can share with your reader.	Conclusion

2. Using the points in column B and the given structure as a guide, write your composition.
3. Share your composition with the friends who helped. This is a good way to express your appreciation of the good deed.
