Going Car-free

An activity of "Where have all the cars gone?"

When roads are temporarily closed to cars, they can be transformed into places of bustling activities. Read "Where have all the cars gone?" (page 21, What's Up March 2026) to find out more.

ON YOUR OWN

A. Using the What's Up story, list the advantages of going car-free and how the various cities enjoy their car-free days.

1. Some advantages of going car-free:

2. How these cities enjoy their car-free days:

Bogota:

Jakarta:

Tokyo:

IN SMALL GROUPS

B. Plan a wheels-free class outing. Use your school as the starting and end points. Chart a route that involves only walking, without the use of school buses, public transport, or cars. The route should also include the activities to be done along the way.

AS A WHOLE CLASS

C. Have every group share its plan with the class. Consider all the good ideas and develop a wheels-free learning journey.
